The mission of the School of Accountancy in the Kennesaw State University Coles College of Business is to prepare students to meet the lofty expectations of today’s business community. We strive to fulfill our mission and provide a high quality accounting education to a diverse student group of future accounting professionals and leaders. This directory will provide insight into our MAcc Class of 2018.

The MAcc program is presented in a fast-paced, one-year format designed to develop the next leaders in the field of accounting, auditing, and taxation. The KSU MAcc is an exceptional program geared to meet the needs of both traditional and non-traditional students by offering both daytime and evening classes. These students are completing the program in one of three specializations – Financial Reporting and Auditing, Taxation or Advisory. The program delivers a strong core of graduate accounting seminars to every program participant, enhances technical expertise, develops advanced communication and critical thinking abilities, and promotes leadership skills.

Our graduates possess a skill set that allows them to make an impact from the inception of their career with knowledge, focus, insight, and clarity. This advanced education gives our students the skills and tools that companies and organizations desire in their employees.

The accounting program at Kennesaw State holds a separate accounting accreditation by AACSB – INTERNATIONAL, THE HALLMARK OF EXCELLENCE IN BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Kennesaw State University is one of only seven colleges and universities in the world recognized at the Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA) Excellence Level. KSU is the only college and university in the State of Georgia authorized by the IIA to issue Internal Audit Education Partnership certificates.
The mission of the School of Accountancy at Kennesaw State University is

1) to provide a high quality accounting education to a diverse student group, preparing successful accounting professionals and future leaders in local, national, and global organizations.

2) to influence the accounting profession through relevant research and professional engagement.

We will achieve these goals by promoting excellence in teaching and research, delivering innovative undergraduate and graduate programs, and fostering an ethical environment of intellectual curiosity, innovation, and collegiality.

Matthew Williams

Matthew Williams is a Master of Accounting student from Chattanooga, TN. He received his undergraduate degree in Accounting from Kennesaw State University. He plans to obtain his CPA license and pursue a career in public accounting. He will begin his career as a tax team member at HLB Gross Collins in Atlanta, GA. His long-term goal is to become a partner at a CPA firm. He has a real passion for accounting and is always working to improve his professional skills and knowledge so that he can reach his goal for a successful career in accounting.
As the Assistant Director of Strategic Partnerships, my passion is student success and helping students make lasting connections that will grow their personal careers. I want to personally invite you to get involved with the School of Accountancy (SOA) at KSU. Being involved with the SOA helps the next accounting leaders learn from professionals in the field, and expand their real world experience, as well as provides comprehensive support for the students. You can get involved in many ways; one is providing financial support. By donating to the School of Accountancy, you ensure we will have the resources to keep improving the students’ educational experience. By donating a scholarship, you are helping students with the financial burden of their education. Recruitment is another great way to get involved with the SOA. We are always attempting to help each individual student get connected with the correct employment “fit.” Ways to engage in our recruitment process are to register for our Accounting and Financial Career Fair, offer the unique opportunity of internships, and participate in on-campus interviews. Alternatively, if you would like to get closer to the student population, we have opportunities for guest speakers and mentorships. Without people like yourself, the School of Accountancy could not offer the best educational experience for our students. After reading more about the MAcc Class of 2018, I hope you will choose to get involved with the SOA at KSU! For more information, please contact me directly at npearce3@kennesaw.edu.

Sincerely,

Nicole Pearce M.Ed.
Assistant Director of Strategic Partnerships
