Throughout the Fall and Spring semesters, Beta Alpha Psi hosts meetings, panels, and other exciting opportunities to engage this elite student population. This benefit also includes access to the Financial Business Information Society (FBIS). This is the feeder organization that includes students that might not meet GPA requirements, academic classifications, or can not commit to the time commitment.

PBJ – Project Bench Jobs

Do you have special projects that you need to hire extra people for a short amount of time? If so, then this bench could be your answer. SoA has developed a list of students that would be interested in working 20 hours or less a week while they are taking classes. We provide you with a shortlist of resumes that you could potentially hire for your short-term projects at the beginning of each semester.

Hold and Promote Events to the Students

Diamond Partners have exclusive access to reserving space on campus. This benefit also includes full access to the student mailing list for off campus events. While students' names will not be provided, Partners may use SoA system to communicate company personalized messages.

Career Course Access

Finding ways to connect with students can be hard, but virtual panels and presentations are a great way to establish connections. In collaboration with our Career Course that is required for all accounting majors, these events will help employers gain exposure to a massive set of students.

"Meet SoA Partners" Weekly Campus Tabling Event

Each week SoA will reserve a table in the atrium of the Burruss Building. Allowing the top three tiers of partners access to greeting the student in between classes. All while the professors and staff on campus will encourage the students to stop by and meet you.

Partnership Roundtable

The Partnership Roundtable is a collaboration between the School of Accountancy and the Corporate Partners. The purpose of the roundtable will be to connect with all of our Corporate Partners on a regular basis and to allow employers to share information and collaborate.

Bi-weekly Student Newsletter Access
